

LANGDON STREET PRESS
MEDIA CONTACT: EMILY WEISS
DIRECTOR OF PUBLICITY
EMILY@LANGDONSTREETPRESS.COM
612-455-2294 x 210

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Singing the Song of Life: One Woman's Symphony By Debra Beryle

Eat, Pray, Love... Sing? New Memoir Tells Inspirational Life Story through Songs

Nipping at the heels of recent popular women's memoirs like Eat, Pray, Love and Anna Sam's Tribulations of a Cashier, this fall author Debra Beryle presents her own inspiring tale of transformation in her book Singing the Song of Life: One Woman's Symphony (Langdon Street Press; ISBN 978-1-934938-51-5; November 2009; $17.95).

Throughout Beryle's surprising fifty year journey, each chapter of her life (and chapter of the book) is cleverly marked by a popular song to which Beryle relates her lessons learned. From suffering financial ruin at the hands of a con man, to recovering from a devastating miscarriage, to testing the limits of friendship and navigating three marriages, Beryle's uncanny ability to pick up the pieces and begin again leaves readers feeling that they, too, can overcome.

Debra's story has already begun enchanting readers everywhere. As Joyce Weiss, author of Take the Ride of Your Life! writes, "I couldn't put Singing the Song of Life down. Debra takes her readers on a fast journey of personal growth. It was amazing to watch a woman learn and grow from her mistakes while never giving up on her dreams. I was mesmerized by her story. Debra shows us how to celebrate life."

This relatable tale has just enough humor and spice to carry readers through the drab winter months! For more about this book and its author, please visit www.SingingTheSongOfLife.com.

About the author:

Debra Beryle is a dynamic and successful businesswoman, whose intuition and foresight helped her to found and run numerous corporations. Debra currently lives and writes in West Bloomfield, Michigan. Singing the Song of Life is her first book.